From Saturday, APRIL 13, to Saturday, APRIL 20. 1734.

To the Printer of the Gazette.

SIR,

IF you will give the following Lines a place in your Paper, they may be of ſervice to more than the Lady to whom they are addreſs'd.

I am, SIR, &c.

To a young LADY.

OH! how I tremble for thy Virgin Heart,
Left Nature in thy Nuptials bear no part;
A Match, the project of another's mind,
Nor by thy lover, nor thy ſelf, deſign'd!
Unknown and ſtrangers to each other's name,
Ere reaſon anticipates th' uncertain flame;
You meet to try to raiſe a mutual love,
If your own wills another's choice approve.
Say, had you met without the leaſt deſign,
Then, would your hearts with one accord incline?
Had the warm paſſion kindled in his breaſt,
Demanding you alone to make him bleſs'd?
Then, had you ſingled him from all you knew,
By Nature's Dictate ever juſt and true?
And he by like attraction pitch'd on you?
Better ill artleſs love unſought ariſe,
And the ſoft fire invade with ſweet ſurprize;
Where ſouls ſpontaneous to each other join,
Allur'd and drawn by accident divine.
If to their wiſhes Fate permit ſucceſs,
That pair ſhall ev'ry human joy poſſeſs;
Shall in themſelves an ample Treaſure find,
To crown their days with bliſs, and fill the mind.
Marriage is union for remaining life,
You fix for ever when commenc'd a wife:
You mingle joys and griefs with one alone;
You blend your ſouls and riſque your fates in one.
Fortune, to which the choice is oft' confin'd,
Is but a part, nor is it of the mind.
I lov'd thee well, with tenderneſs extreme,
My love was nature's offspring, not a ſcheme.
With thee I'd fain life's peaceful Steps have trod,
Centring my bliſs in thee alone and God.
My Muſe ſhould ever ſooth thy gentle ear,
And place thee with the world's diſtinguiſh'd Fair;
To lateſt times convey thy ſhining Name,
And give thy merit its reward of fame.
Once didſt thou favour her ambitious ſtrains,
And ſweetly ſmiling recompence her pains.
Thy ſmiles peculiar fed my fond deſire,
And bid me to the glorious hope aſpire.
So long thy beauteous perſon I ſurvey'd,
So much thy mind my pleaſing ſtudy made;
So oft' I've gaz'd with love's attentive eye,
And rais'd my paſſion and eſteem ſo high,
So deep explor'd the virtues of thy breaſt,
In private hours of converſation bleſs'd;
A thouſand nameleſs graces have I ſeen,
From latent ſources riſing o'er thy mein,
Which ſcarce ſhall glimmer to another's ſight,
Or in his different thought inſpire delight.
Judgment ſhall taſte, and native ſtrong conſcious,

To all thy charms ſubdu'd my captive ſoul,
Another loves thee by a friend's advice,
Nor on thy worth can fix ſo juſt a price;
But takes you, in the common forms of life,
His houſhold guardian, and commodious wife.

Extract of a Letter from the Recorder of Savannah in Georgia, to the Honourable JAMES OGLETHORPE Eſq;

SIR,

I Had the Honour to write to you by our Meſſenger, giving you an account of our Court Proceedings; ſince which I am to inform you of an Accuſation, brought by Captain Shaw, and Iſhike his Lieutenant, Indians, complaining that one Joſeph Watts, who worked at Musgrove's Cowpen, had taken into his Hut, at the ſaid Cowpen, the Wife of one of their Indians, named Coſatige; that he gave her a Blanket, and ſhe laid with him in the ſaid Hut.

We treated the Indians with Civility, and immediately promiſed 'em Juſtice, and that the Man ſhould be ſent for, brought up here, and puniſh'd ſeverely: Upon which they expreſſed themſelves contented and went away, ſeemingly well ſatisfied. We accordingly on the ſpot, without any Loſs of Time, diſpatched a Warrant by Jones who was then going down, and brought the Fellow up here, and put him in the Log-houſe. We gave notice to Shaw and Iſhike of it, who came to ſee and accuſe him: Whereupon we immediately ſat in Court, ſent for Joſeph, Musgrove's Indian Servant, and Francis to interpret, and examined the Fellow before the ſaid Shaw and Iſhike, and another Indian named Tuſtanuggee; a great many People being preſent, and the Conſtables attending in Order, with their Muſkets and Bayonets. Shaw and Iſhike ſeemed very cautious of expreſſing themſelves at firſt, but accuſed the Fellow of the Fact, for that they ſaw it: They ſaid, they did not inſiſt, that any white Man ſhould be puniſhed for them; but that they were always told, even white Mens Dogs were good, and did not believe any would hurt 'em. The Husband in the mean time had cut off the Ears and Hair of the Woman, ſtuck them upon a Stick, and brought them to the Store-Houſe Door. They told us, that they had taken Satisfaction of the Woman, and if ſhe lived, would take her again amongſt them. The Fellow did not deny the taking her into the Hut, and her lying there; but ſaid, he did no harm, and ſeemed to laugh at it, plainly imagining, (as I preſume) that the proving the actual Fact of Adultery would be required. We ſeverely reprimanded him thereupon, and immediately cauſed a pair of Irons to be put upon his Hands before the Indians; and at the ſame time gave neceſſary Admonitions to all the People then preſent againſt ſuch Crimes, and ſhewed them the Contemptible nature thereof, in the ſtrongeſt Sentiments we were capable of. We told the Indians, that it was a Crime, that in our Laws required the ſeverest Puniſhment, and that we our ſelves muſt puniſh him.

Upon the Irons being put on, and the Indians ſeeing our juſt Reſentment of the Crime, ſpoke them more freely, and ſaid, that the having her a Blanket, and taking her into his Hut and ſleeping there with him, was what the Indians do amongst them, and that, upon the Country, for that Crime, they cut the Throats of them that did it: That they should be glad to see him well whip'd. We promised that they shou d be present and see him punished. We gave the Indians Encouragement, upon any grievance, to come always and complain and speek freely; that they should have their Wrongs immediately redressed, and the Aggressor severely punished.

I must not omit telling your Honour, that they said amongst other Things, that when they see him punished, they would believe it; but upon the Hand-cuffs being put on, and the Guard in form carrying him back to Goal, they seemed all well satisfied, and promised to come and see him punished. I don't doubt your Honour will be of Opinion, on such an Occasion, (and for an Example to deter others) even to exceed the ordinary Punishments.

As to the Savannah Indians being come down, Mr. Colleton's and his Brother's Arrival and Departure, the going down of the Tyle People, the Arrival of the Happy Man of War, and other Things mentioned in Mr. Causton's Letter, I refer you to him. The News of a Man of War being stationed here, is very agreable to every body, and adds new Life to them. The great Regard of his Majesty, and the Care of the Honourable Gentlemen, the Trustees, for our Preservation, is therein very conspicuous, and we shall endeavour to deserve a Continuance of it. I have only to add, that Mr. Delmas was brought to Town in a very weak Condition, being likewise troubled with a Species of a Fistula: I took him into my House, and now he is not only almost cured, but recovers his Strength daily, and will soon be able to return again to Skidoway. I beg leave to subscribe myself

Your Honour's

Most faithful and obedient Humble Servant

Savannah April the 6th 1734.

Tho. Christie.

Extract of a Letter from on Board his Majesty's Sloop the Happy.

Tybee, April the 4th 1734.

'There is safe coming in for Ships to this Place, Here 'is much less Difficulty, than I expected, having 'Water enough all the Way, never less than a Quarter 'Three, and anchored in two Foot Four at low Water. 'The Men are here about the Beacon; who may have all 'the Assistance, lies in my Power, during my Stay.

New-York, March 11. 1733-4.

On the 6th Inst. arrived here the Ship Catharine, Capt. Farmer from Madera. It is wrote from thence of the 2d of Feb. N. S. that a Ship (Capt. Christopher Brooks) was just arrived there from Gibraltar, with the News that Milan and the Citadel, and two Places on the other Side of the Rhine are taken: The Dutch neuter; the King of Prussia undetermined; Great Britain not declared; Stanislaus at Dantzick threatned by the Czarina; and all the Sally Men destroyed except one who is kept in by our Cruizers.

Three Sally Men in a dark Night in a Levant were pushed out, undiscovered by the Cruizers, and took four English Vessels, but were met by two of the cruizing Men of War, one English and the other Dutch: The English Man of War retook the four Prizes, and the Dutch Man of War took the three Sally Men.

New-York, March 11. This Day a Sloop arrived in 14 Days from Bermuda, Capt. Burrow Master, who says, a Brigantine arrived there (3 Days before he sailed thence) from London in 5 Weeks and 3 Days Passage, with News of an Accommodation between the Emperor, France, and the contending Parties, and that all the Preliminaries of a Peace were agreed to, and only wanted a Ratification: What those Preliminaries were he knows not, but that Stanislaus was to be King of Poland for his Life. All was peace and quiet at home.

Boston, March 4. By Capt. Draper from Lisbon, in about 7 Weeks Passage to Newport, Rhode-Island, we are inform'd, That 3 Days before he left Lisbon, a Dutch Man of War of 20 Guns arrived there from the Coast of Sallee to Careen, with Advice, that Commodore Cornwall of the Dursley Galley, had sunk a Sallee Man of 28 Guns, after 4 Hours Engagement, and all the Company killed or drowned. That the Rose Man of War had sunk another Sallee Man of 24 Guns on the Bar of Sallee. That a Brig. came out in Company with 2 Sallee Men, but got in again, which before had taken several Vessels, amongst the rest two Brigantines belonging to Pool; afterwards taken by a Portuguese Man of War, and brought into Lisbon with no body on board but 12 Moors in one, and 10 in the other. That there was a Row Galley from Tetuan, about 90 Men in Company, who chasing two Vessels ran ashore by them in a Bay about 6 Leagues to the Eastward of Gibraltar, and were all taken Prisoners by the Spaniards. That a certain Captain of a Sloop sailed from Connecticut to Lisbon not long ago, took in a Freight from thence for London, and upon his Arrival the Capt. delivered up to the Owners the Vessel, but marcht off with 1200 Pistoles.
